

RECRUITMENT AND SELECTION POLICY

All Saints

Procedures for the recruitment and selection of staff Staff employment principles

All Saints Community Development Company, All Saints Centre Company and All Saints Parish Church (All Saints) are committed to equal and fair recruitment and selection of staff across all areas of its work.

We are committed to being good employers and to have a staff that reflects the diverse nature of our local community and our city.

When recruiting staff the following procedures are guidelines so that the same processes are followed throughout All Saints. They are to ensure equal opportunities for all candidates.

These procedures relate to paid staff only – the recruitment of volunteers is laid out in the Volunteer policy.

Volunteers, members of the congregation and current staff will be encouraged to apply for any job vacancies within All Saints but will follow the same processes.

Directors or PCC members should approve any new post and its salary.

At least one director or PCC member should be part of the recruitment process and interviewing panel.

All results of recruitment should be reported to Board/PCC meeting as soon as possible.

All processes, including interview, short listing dates and membership of the panel should be decided prior to the being job being advertised.

A. Job descriptions and person specifications

All posts will have a job description and person specification that is written before the recruitment period starts

If the post is a replacement then the jd and ps should be reviewed

B. Advertising

The nature of the advertising should be relevant to the post

All posts should be advertised in the pew slip

Local advertising should be used as much as possible

Job centres and on line should be used as appropriate

Posts should be advertised on our web site(s) with an on-line application form

All costs for advertising should be evidenced in budgets and built into funding applications

All spending should be agreed through relevant committees/managers

Adverts should state enhanced CRBs are needed, if relevant

Appropriate logos should be used, including funders when appropriate

An equal opportunity statement should be on every advert

Adverts should be jargon free
A closing date should be given

C. Application process

Every job must use the standard application form (appendix 1)
Application requests should be dealt with in 3 – 5 days
Enquires/questions should be responded to within 48 hours (bearing in mind the closing date)
All applicants should receive the same information
Applicants should be offered the opportunity to visit.
Applicants can apply on-line, by post or by hand
All applications must be on the application form (cv and or letter alone is not acceptable)
Applicants should also receive information about the organisation, the area of work and our values
If the applicant has access to internet then they can be referred to the appropriate web site
All applications are confidential and should be stored together securely
All enquiries and applications should be listed
No applications should be accepted after the closing date
Applicants should be asked to bring proof of ID and documentation about their right to work (if they aren't UK or other European Community country citizens) to the interview
If candidates choose to visit the site before the interviews then anything that happens during that visit should not be considered as part of the selection unless it is illegal, violent or discriminatory

D. Short listing

At a minimum the short listing should be done by the interviewing panel
Other people can be involved if helpful to the process
The panel should elect a chair
Short listing results are confidential
All candidates should receive results of the short listing
Short listing should be against the jd and ps, on the ps all essential criteria should be met. In the event of a disagreement the chair of the panel shall decide
Incomplete or illegible forms should not get through the short listing process
All candidates who get through the short listing should be interviewed

E. Selection process

The selection process should be decided in advance and applicants informed
The process may include a presentation, tests or meeting other relevant people.
If the job is with children and young people then they should be involved in some way with the selection.
If the job is with service users then they could be involved in the selection processes.

All selection processes selected should have clear guidelines

E1. Interviews

The interview panel should be made up of a diverse group – 3 or 4 at the most
Interview should be timetabled for each candidate.

Questions should be prepared in advance by the interview panel and should relate to the job description and person specification

No questions should be asked of a personal nature e.g how will you look after your children?

All candidates should be asked the same questions

Supplementary questions should only be asked to encourage a more complete answer

Panel members should make notes of answers.

A scoring system should be agreed before the interview

Scores should be set for each question

Candidates can be scored on other attribute that around the ps but not best judged through questions e.g communication skills, body language, confidence level.

An overall score for appointment should be set. It shouldn't just be the highest scorer as they might not score enough to convince you they can do the job.

If needed panel members can discuss what they expect to get from an answer before the interviews.

Panel members should be allocated the questions they will ask. These should be the same for each candidate

The chair should introduce the panel members, explain the process and put the candidate at ease

Panel members should interview in a way that gets the best out of the candidate and not be frightening and intimidating.

Panel members should have empathy with the candidate's nervousness

At the end of the interview candidates should be told the interview is over and should be asked:

Do they have any questions for the panel?

Can they confirm they have the right to work in this country?

Have they disclosed everything on the self-disclosure/DBS section of the application form? If they disclose more information this should be recorded on the application form (this can be done in private with the chair, if this is appropriate). It is important to emphasis to the candidate that non disclosure of anything that may appear on their DBS check could result in a job offer being withdrawn.

Non of the above should affect the results of the interview at this point.

When the candidate leaves then each panel member should fill in their scores. They should not discuss the candidate.

When all candidates have left then the scores should be totalled and shared. If there are major differences between scores of individual panel members these should be discussed and altered if appropriate. Any alteration should be initialled.

If there are candidates with equal scores then answers to individual questions should be looked at, particularly questions that are considered more important for the job.

In the event of a non resolvable tie then candidates should be re interviewed. Candidates should be offered feedback on their interview

Candidates should be informed of the results as soon as possible. For those who didn't get the job this can be a phone call. For those who did get the job this can be a phone call followed by an offer letter.

All paperwork should be kept on file for 12 months then shredded. The successful candidate's paperwork should be kept in their employee's file.

E2. Presentations and tests

If setting presentations and tests these should be planned in advance and candidates should receive clear information about them.

They should be consistent for each candidate and include details of how they will be scored.

The results of the tests and presentation should be available at the end of the interviews

E3. Meeting relevant people

If candidates are going to meet people as part of the selection process you should be clear about what these people will be looking for and how feedback will be given. If this happens at a separate time to the interviews a decision should not be made until this feedback is received.

F. References and checks

F.1. References

All application forms include 3 references. If these are not filled in in full then the candidate should not be interviewed. One of the references should be the candidate's last employer. If it is not then candidate should be asked why they didn't put the last employer and the reason noted on the application form. There will need to be a judgement made about whether this reason is valid or not.

Both references should be followed up in writing. If the job involves working with children or vulnerable adults the referee should be informed of this and asked to comment specifically on this aspect of the job. A job description should be sent with the reference request. Candidates are entitled to see their references if they wish and referees should be informed of this. References should be put in the employee's file. The candidate should not start work until the references are returned.

It is possible to ring the referees and get an initial reference, notes should be made of their answer, but written references should always be sought. E-mail references are only acceptable if the referee lives outside of the UK.

F.2. DBS

If the job requires a DBS then this should be sought through the DBS coordinator. The candidate can start work before the DBS arrives but must not work unsupervised. The DBS requirement should appear on the job advert and application form. DBS s are paid for by the organisation.

F.3. Entitlement to work and confirmation of ID

Candidates should be asked to bring confirmation of id to the interview and this should be marked on the application form.

If the candidate is not a UK citizen or a citizen of another European Union country then they will need to show proof of right to work, this should be noted on the application form.

G. Offer letter

An offer letter should be sent to candidates within a week of the interviews. This should include a prospective start day pending references, the agreed salary, the probationary period, the name of their line manager and information about the CRB process.

H. Post offerH.1. Probationary periods

Employees should have a minimum of 3 months probationary period. During this time if there are any issues they should be stated on the supervision notes. If the staff member seems likely to fail their probationary period they should be informed of this during supervision.

If the employee doesn't pass their probationary period then they should be informed of this, with reasons, verbally and in writing.

The point of the probationary period is to ensure that the appointment is the correct person for the job. It is important to use it properly.

H.2. Induction (see Supervision and support policy)H.3. Data base

All details should be added to the employees' data base through ASCDC administrator.

Each employee should fill in an employees' information form with the ASCDC administrator.

Staff employment principles

All Saints aims to be a good employer and to treat its employees with respect, fairness, understanding and care.

It is important to consult the policies and employee's handbook to ensure that you are following good practice.

It is the commitment of All Saints not to pay any employee below living wage.

We would always hope to pay employees linked to national and local equivalent pay scales but this may not always be possible within budgetary constraints.

Cost of living rises and incremental rises should be considered in any funding application. They should be reviewed annually at appropriate committee level and confirmed by Boards/PCC.

Any incremental rises should be given based on a satisfactory appraisal.

No rises should be given if there are budgetary problems either current or in the future cash flow- this could potentially be seen as reckless.

When consideration is given for pay rises then the Boards/PCC should consider the situation across the site. Although people are employed through different organisations they are all part of the All Saints team.

Although we wish to be open and transparent all directors/PCC members should be aware that some issues around employees are of a confidential nature

Freelance or self employed

When contracting free lance or self employed workers they can only be paid in response to an invoice. Invoices should clearly state that they are responsible for declaring and paying their own tax.

No one should be paid cash in hand.
